Manufacturing Facilities Require Flexible Security

Merle Norman Cosmetics employs nearly 500 U.S. workers to research, develop, manufacture and package its line of skin care and color products. Using state-of-the-art technology and the finest ingredients available, Merle Norman Cosmetics develops unique, high-quality products that address the skin care needs of consumers while also presenting a broad line of color cosmetics. The company operates two manufacturing facilities in Los Angeles, California, and required updated security systems for the buildings when the previous systems malfunctioned.

Problem: Company requires flexible security

- Security required for two large facilities that span entire city blocks
- System must be capable of arming select areas of the facilities while leaving others open for access
- Ease of use essential for security personnel

Solution: G Series Control Panels provide comprehensive security

- Panels feature an array of functions and flexibility to make them highly effective for a wide range of security requirements
- Scalable design supports multiple areas with interior and exterior partitioning
- Variety of keypads available provide complete control over the system through easy to read, bright displays

Results: Customized security for busy plants

- Facilities are divided into multiple areas to accommodate the work schedules of various departments within the manufacturing buildings; enables select areas to be armed at all times
- Support for schedules assures the system is turned on and off automatically at predetermined times
- Flexibility allowed the system to be programmed to fit the way the company works – maximizing ease of use

G Series Control Panels secure the Merle Norman Cosmetics manufacturing facilities in California.
